FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The California Credit Union League's Tomorrow's Star Award

The California Credit Union League presented Tomorrow's Star Award to Erin Hodson, Branch Manager for the Regional Occupation Center Student Branch of Kern Schools Federal Credit Union. The League's Tomorrow's Star Award is presented to young credit union leaders, under the age of 35, for achievements that have resulted in added value to the credit union movement. "Erin has demonstrated expertise and dedication to serving as a strong advocate for credit unions, and her service to the credit union community and her volunteer participation in Kern County is outstanding," stated Steve Renock, President/CEO of Kern Schools Federal Credit Union. The California Credit Union League Convention was held on November 18, 2009, in Las Vegas, Nevada.

Erin Hodson serves as a board member for the Regional Occupation Center Banking and Finance Program, Greenfield Union School District's "Foundation for Success" Executive Board, Career Technical Education Advisory Board and is an Advisory member for the Bakersfield Adult School. In addition, Erin and the Youth Marketing Team at KSFCU teach the youth of Kern County financial literacy. The team performed 354 presentations for the 2008-2009 school year that reached 31,261 students. Erin was instrumental in organizing and presenting many of these presentations. The California Credit Union League also recognized KSFCU with first place in the nation for the most students reached through the financial literacy classes.
